One of my favorite things to brag about Tulsa on is the many entrepreneurs that have followed their hearts, took risk and succeeded in making an idea reality that millions have since enjoined. One of those individuals that I personally admire is Ken Selby the founder of Mazzio's Pizza. Below is a press release about the 50th anniversary of this great Oklahoma pizza business. Tulsa-based Mazzio's, LLC celebrates its 50th anniversary in 2011 and will be offering a year-long pizza special to recognize this important milestone.

Mazzio's founder Ken Selby opened his first pizza restaurant — The Pizza Parlor — on November 11, 1961 across from the University of Tulsa. He opened a second location four years later and changed the name of both to Ken's Pizza, and saw it grow quickly across the region. In 1979, Selby started a second restaurant concept based on the success of Ken's and that became Mazzio's Pizza.

To commemorate this 50th anniversary, Mazzio's will be sponsoring celebrations and food specials throughout the coming year. Mazzio's announces a year-long special — two large, one topping pizzas for $19.61 recognizing the year Ken Selby began making pizzas.

“It’s exciting to be a part of this successful local business Ken started 50 years ago,” said Greg Lippert, president and CEO of Mazzio's LLC. “Mazzio's is a big customer favorite across 10 states and 166 locations. We would like to thank all of our customers for their years of support by offering them specials all year long.”
